The two-day interactive workshop will translate the latest evidence-based research and apply the best practice model of care into good clinical practice, specifically for resource constrained areas

Our goals for AWACC 2023 are to:

- Provide updates in the management of PLWH with new ART regimens, opportunistic infections, comorbidities and treatment failure
- Provide updates on HIV in the paediatric population, PMTCT program, and women
- Mentor experienced clinicians to train healthcare workers in their district facilities
- Facilitate networking among HIV clinicians, researchers, and policy makers
- Collaborate with the DOH to strengthen health systems and reach UNAIDS 95-95-95 target by 2030.

ABOUT

The annual workshop, established in 2007 as a joint effort of the Centre for AIDS Research (CFAR) of Harvard Medical School and McCord Hospital (MH) in Durban, South Africa, has received acclaim for its relevance to the growing ART roll-out program in the region and the need to care for people living with HIV (PLWH) with advanced HIV disease and comorbidities. The conference is organised yearly by Medical, Clinical and Academic Teaching (MEDICATE)-AIDS, NPC.
